POLLUTION OF THE GREENBRIER.

Hinton is showing a good deal of nervousness and irritability over the alleged proposed pollution of the Greenbrier to be caused by establishing the big pulp mill at Caldwell. We judge from the local papers published there. It states that the Hinton water works will not submit to any pollution of the water they have been pumping.

We do not consider the matter of enough importance to warrant a discussion, but it will do to make talk, something that is often necessary in our business. We have very little law on the subject of pollution of streams in this State, our laws being sufficiently strict to prevent any unnecessary pollution of streams, but not interfering with an industry such as the pulp mill.

We asked a prominent West Virginian, who has had a great deal to do with the stocking of the Greenbrier and other streams with desirable fish and who loves the shaded woods and a clear stream as well as any man, what he thought about such things. He said it is a sacrifice we must make to progress. We cannot afford to keep back the development of our country for the sake of a stream of water, and the day is coming when we will have to go back in the woods to find pure streams. You cannot change a forest to farm land without polluting to a considerable extent the streams which drain it. It is the price we have to pay for the benefits of civilization.

It is amusing to see how carefully the Hinton Independent Herald shields the C. & O. R. R. with any part of the blame in the development of Caldwell. The railroad is the great factor at Hinton and no evil must be imputed to it.

It is quite true that we are favored by being upstream from the pulp mill, but we are quite sure if we were below it we would submit as gracefully as we could.

The newspaper correspondents talk of "disease and death," and only their inability prevents them from portraying as foul a stream as does Winthrop Mackworth Praed, an old English writer, in "The Red Fisherman." We were reminded so forcibly of it by the literary efforts of the Hinton people that we looked up the passage and give it here:

"Companionless, for a mile or more, He traced the windings of the shore. Oh, besetuous is that river still, As it winds by many a sloping hill, And many a dim o'er arching grove, And many a flat and sunny cove, And terraced lawns, whose bright arched

The honey-suckle sweetly shades, And rocks whose very crags seem bowers, So gay they are with grass and flowers. But the Abbot was thinking of scenery About as much, in sooth, As a lover thinks of constancy, Or an advocate of truth. He did not mark how the skies in wrath Grew dark above his head; He did not mark how the mossy path Grew damp beneath his tread; And nearer he came, and still more near

To a pool, in whose recess The water had slept for many a year, Unchanged and motionless; From the river the stream it spread away, The space of half a rood; The surface had the hue of clay, And the scent of human blood; The trees and herbs that round it grew Were venomous and foul; And the birds that threw the bushes flew Were the vulture and the owl; The water was as dark and rank As ever a company pumped; And the trout that was netted and laid on the bank, Grew rotten while it jumped; And bold was he who thither came At midnight, man or boy; For the place was cursed with an evil name, And that name was 'The Devil's De-coy.'

Much comment has been made upon the recent exposures in Chicago going to show that almost any jury empaneled in that city can be bribed. In their denunciation of this state of corruption the newspapers have so far failed to consider that after all the accused has to put up so much money to go free that it is in the nature of a punishment.

Many fear that the beef was embalmed and the packers will be white-washed. They would rather see the packers embalmed and the beef white-washed.

For The Times, AT THE DOLLAR DINNER.

"Much unfavorable comment has been made by his friends in Richmond on Hon. William J. Bryan's dining with negroes both male and female at the Jeffersonian dinner in New York." —Daily Papers.

Belmont wrote to Billy Bryan, 'Come to New York and with me dine!' 'No,' Bryan answered, 'you ain't nice, Besides, sir, I kin't get the price.' But on he came his head to swell And stopped all night at a cheap hotel And went to dine at a charity ball At a popular price in reach of all. But he met the people men have to face When they travel cheap in a distant place.

For at the house he had chosen to dine They'd never heard of the color line; And a politician, his doubts began, When they set him down by a colored man.

"Sit thee down and have no shame, Cheek by jowl and knee by knee, What care I for any name? What for order or degree? Fill the cup and fill the can, Drink like dry ground after drouth, What care I for any man Who ever voted in the South? Are you not my friend and brother, Come then let us hob-and-nob, Let us drink to one another Oblivious of the Southern Snob! Fill the cup and fill the can, Confusion to the Money Trust! You are a One Dollar man, I will eat with these of bust!"

THE PASSING OF THE COVERED WAGON.

"The Greenbrier Valley Railroad will be built through a section of West Virginia which is practically destitute of transportation facilities." —Manufacturer's Record.

What of the covered wagon! They seem to regard the wagon and team of little or no account, but it has done wonders in carrying freight into Pocahontas. It has been slow and expensive, but no one can say it has not been effective. The goods might get damaged by water in the fords; the rain might leak through a defective wagon cover; the goods get rubbed in the hauling; the wagon stick in a mud-hole; a wheel crush down with the weight of the load; a horse get sick or die; or the wagon and team go over the side of the road down a precipitous mountain side, but all these years the mountain schooners have been trailing over our long roads supplying a numerous people with all the luxuries and necessities of modern times.

It would be hard to find a community of people who live better or more comfortably than the people of this county. They have good stores, well built houses nicely furnished, and the latest and best farm machinery. Great quantities of salt and commercial fertilizers are imported. We export live stock which is driven out with less drift than if carried on the train, and timber which has been floated away by the river. Grain has never been sent out for this country's wealth is in live stock, and grain has always commanded a better price here than at the railroad. So the country prospered in a quiet way and has had fairly good transportation facilities and the majority do not look upon a railroad as a necessity by any means. They want to see it built knowing it will be a great convenience and bring more people here and make timber valuable, but on the other hand they know that farm land will depreciate in value and some of the people who follow the railroad in will not be acquisitions.

And as long as they compute the strength of the locomotive by comparing it with the power of a horse, and we have thousands of horses and experienced wagoners, please do not say that we are practically destitute of transportation facilities.

It is greatly to be regretted that Bryan dined at any of the dinners in New York, owing to the row the southern people are raising over the fact that colored people were present at the banquet on the 15th.

"A word to the wise is sufficient" and word from the wise should be sufficient, but you ask, who are the wise. Those who know, the oft-repeated experience of trustworthy persons may be taken for knowledge. Mr. W. M. Perry says Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other in the market. He has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for twelve years; has sold hundreds of bottles of this remedy and nearly all other cough medicines manufactured, which shows conclusively that Chamberlain's is the most satisfactory to the people, and is the best.

IMPORTANT WEST VIRGINIA LINE.

Nearly 100 Miles to be Built at Once Along the Greenbrier Valley.

The project of constructing a railroad along the Greenbrier River, West Virginia, through the extensive coal beds and timber tracts in the eastern section of West Virginia was detailed over a year ago in the Manufacturer's Record. The company, comprising several prominent Northern capitalists, look up the matter, and several surveys were made, but for a time the matter was held in abeyance. The Manufacturer's Record has been informed upon the highest authority that arrangements have finally been made to construct this road, which will extend from Caldwell station, on the Chesapeake & Ohio to the forks of Greenbrier, a distance of ninety miles. In connection with the railroad a large pulp mill will be built, as recently stated in these columns. Surveys are now being made for the railroad, and the promoting company expects to let contracts within the next thirty days.

The route is through a section of West Virginia which is practically destitute of transportation facilities, and it will prove a most important factor in the development of that section of the South. —Manufacturer's Record.

DUNMORE.
Sunday was a March day. Sol Davis and family will leave Wednesday for Baltimore. His sale was largely attended and second-hand furniture sold for more than new.

Mrs Adam Nottingham is improving some.
Mrs Julia Lockridge, of Highland, is out to see her mother.
Newton Gum had a child badly scalded; it may recover.
Several old cows are on the lift.
Elihu Gum moved out and Will Geiger moved in.

R. L. Nottingham is getting on his ladies hats for summer.
J. R. Hevener was in town Monday for some furniture. Swecker will send a wagon load of hand made furniture to Elk next week.
Swecker will close out a stock of goods at Marlinton April 28.

We see some work being done on the bad roads. If people would see good roads kept up by taxation they would all be in for it.
R. L. Nottingham has been appointed postmaster at Dunmore. Take your medicine, boys; I have been in the same line.
We see fire in the mountains. Some one is trying to kill all the timber and make the land so poor that you can't raise an umbrella on it.
B. F. McElwee has been putting in some new 'phones along the line.
Oliver Brothers have sold out to Lawrence Dysard.
The lumber business is brisk up at Clondike.

SUNSTROKE In Battle.

J. L. SPENCER,
of Plattsville, Wis., formerly of Co. G, 7th Wisconsin Infantry, has suffered many years from the result of a sunstroke. He has found relief and desires to tell his story for the good of other veterans. He says:
"At Petersburg I was sunstruck and carried off the field for dead. Later rheumatism of my heart developed as a result and physicians failed to benefit me. In the spring of '95 I began using Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Dr. Miles' Nerve and now my health is better than for 30 years before."

DR. MILES' Heart Cure
Is sold by all druggists on guarantee first bottle benefits or money back. Book on heart and nerves sent free. Dr. Miles Medical Company, Elkhart, Ind.

BROWNSBURG.
The weather is fine and the whippoorwill has made appearance again, and the farmers are making wide preparations for planting corn.
Our community witnessed two deaths last week, Mrs Julia Truss and Mrs Aronia Scott.

IN MEMORIAM.
Mrs Julia Truss died April 20th at 8 p. m. She was the wife of Jonas Truss of Virginia, and was near 80 years old. Two of her sons survive her. She was a member of the M. E. Church, and a devout christian. In her last words she said that the angels were coming to carry her home.
Mrs M. A. Scott, aged 22 years, departed this life on April 22 at 3 a. m. She was the wife of Charles Scott; they have been married two years and she leaves one child. She told her husband not to grieve after her, and she called her brothers to her bedside and requested them to try to meet her in Heaven. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. M. Boggs Sunday morning at the church.
And so we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved friends of the deceased. E. W. J.

In 1888 my wife went East and was attacked with rheumatism. She received no relief until she tried Chamberlain's Pain-Balm. Since then we have not been without it. We find it gives instant relief in cases of burns and scalds and is never failing in all rheumatic and neuralgic pains.—D. C. Brant, Santa Ynez, California.
